Fatality One Year Ago

Hundreds Ride in Memory of Ed Weiss

Family, friends and bicyclists from throughout the East Bay participated in a memorial to Ed Weiss on July 29. One year ago, a speeding ninja-style racing motorcycle crossed the double-yellow line on Skyline Boulevard and killed the avid cyclist. No charges have been filed.

The Friday, July 27, editions of The Montclarion and The Piedmonter newspapers contain a substantial investigative report, “One Year Later.” They identified the motorcyclist as Thomas Michael Roers who “said he blacked out and when he awoke, he was being treated by emergency officials.” The July 28 Oakland Tribune reports a denial from an Alameda County District Attorney prosecutor that the motorcyclist received special treatment because of family ties to law enforcement.

Earlier, a March 25 article in The Montclarion reported that reckless behavior had returned to Skyline in 2007. Skyline neighbors and recreational bicyclists can attest to the route being transformed into a motor racetrack every weekend when traffic enforcement is absent. Even during the recent memorial event, a ninja rider made threatening gestures in front of hundreds of assembled bicyclists and Council Member Jean Quan before he was heard blasting down the road.

According to Ed’s brother, Rick Schiller, who addressed the bicyclists assembled for the memorial ride, “there is a big difference between a Harley rider, or most motorcyclists, and those who ride ninja racing machines on public roads—ninja riders seek to test the performance of motorcycles capable of reaching speeds in excess of 150 mph.”

In response to the district attorney’s inaction, Ed’s family and friends, Skyline neighbors, and bicyclists have identified at least four necessary steps:

Justice – Without penalties for reckless driving, we can be certain that the dangerous speeding will continue unabated. Ed’s family and the EBBC have consistently sought to have charges filed and a fair judgment rendered in a court of law.

Enforcement – When the cat’s away, the mice will play. During the weekends, there are very few patrols and the ninja motorcyclists know it. Immediately following Ed’s crash last July, Oakland’s motorcycle traffic officers made a concentrated effort to cite speeding and lane violations on Skyline Boulevard. That effort, unfortunately, could not be sustained and speeding has returned. Another complication: the Skyline Regional Bikeway extends through multiple jurisdictions. The lack of enforcement during weekends is endemic throughout the scenic urban periphery favored by cyclists for fitness rides. As a result, the recreational habitat for bicycling is shrinking and rural residents are under siege from motorcycle and sports car racing activity.

“Can we get multiple jurisdictions—including both county sheriffs, the CHP, the East Bay Regional Park District, and local police departments—to pool their resources and create a roving squad for weekend traffic enforcement on rural and scenic roads?”

We must face the twin realities of a) very limited police budgets for traffic enforcement, and b) close monitoring of scheduled traffic patrols by the very groups they seek to enforce. The schedule for recent Alameda County sheriff patrols on Palomares Road was well known to ninja racers, who either waited until the patrols ended or just met elsewhere. Effective traffic patrols need to utilize an element of surprise in order to not simply shift the problem briefly from one road to another.

Traffic Calming – Engineering measures like speed bumps (the so-called “sleeping police officers”) that slow urban speeders, are not applicable on rural roads.

Nevertheless, neighborhood groups on Skyline Boulevard have identified some engineering solutions that hold promise. One idea is a traffic circle on the broad Skyline Boulevard intersection with Pinehurst Road and Shepherd Canyon Road.

Enhanced Awareness of Bicyclists – The City of Oakland has recently posted new “Share the Road” signs along Skyline Boulevard. New green bike route signs have also started to appear and may soon replace faded or missing Regional Bike-way signs.

Ed Weiss Memorial

Such signs certainly let visitors know to expect bicycle traffic and educate bicyclists and motorists alike. The Skyline Regional Bikeway was originally designated in the 1970s through a collaborative effort by the City of Oakland, the East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD), and BART. The signed bikeway connects Rockridge BART with Skyline Boulevard.

One of the most visionary proposals, to create an Ed Weiss Memorial Park on Skyline, appears on Skyline resident Bennett Hall’s Web site:

www.businessimagegroup.com/skyline/traffic.html.

Bennett proposes a park to be located at the intersection of Skyline and Pinehurst, where it would serve as a meeting place and rest stop for cyclists as well as a reminder of Ed’s tragic death.

With an EBRPD extension bond measure slated to appear on the November 2008 ballot, now is the ideal time to lobby for a memorial park to be included in the long-range expenditure plan which is now being compiled.

Draft EBBC Statement on Redeveloping Concord Naval Weapons Station

Here is the EBBC’s current draft position statement on redeveloping the Concord Naval Weapons Station. Please contact Steve Ardrey (sacyclepath@yahoo.com; 925-681-2808) or Bruce “Ole” Ohlson (925-439-5848; BruceOleOhlson@hotmail.com) with your ideas and suggestions on the statement or to help EBBC with the CNWS redevelopment project.

A sustainable Concord Naval Weapons Station Redevelopment should offer existing and future Concord residents transportation options that are healthy and reduce greenhouse emissions. The plans must include both internal and external connections via an on-street bikeway network of bike lanes and bike boulevards.

Off-road multiple-use paths, while welcome, especially for connecting cul-de-sac neighborhoods, are costly to build and maintain, and can only meet a portion of the non-motorized transportation needs.

Prioritization of bicycle and pedestrian projects should acknowledge existing programs like Safe Routes to Transit, Safe Routes to Schools, and connections to the Delta Trails network.

Justice Is a Fitting Memorial – Write the Alameda County DA

If you live in Alameda County, you can help ensure that Ed Weiss’s case is prosecuted by Alameda County: write Alameda County DA Tom Orloff and tell him how prosecution of the Weiss case can make Alameda County streets and roads safer for bicycling. Please mail or fax your brief and sincere comments to Orloff at the address below, and urge other Alameda County residents—especially your friends and members of bicycling clubs—to do the same:

The Honorable Thomas J. Orloff
District Attorney
Alameda County
1225 Fallon St. Suite 900
Oakland CA 94612
FAX: 510-271-5157

The EBBC’s letter to the District Attorney urging prosecution for the death of Ed Weiss noted that “On June 27, 1993, 40-year old Mills College professor Kim Korner was killed while riding a bicycle that was struck at Skyline & Joaquin Miller by a speeding 19-year-old motorcyclist driving on a just-suspended license. It continues to disturb me that no charges were filed in that case despite the fact that Mr. Korner, like Ed Weiss, was victimized, and his death occurred through no fault of his own riding behavior.”

Is This Your Stolen Bike? – Rarely does this topic represent good news. Three East Bay bicyclists recently recovered their stolen bikes thanks, in part, to the circulation of descriptions or photos on either an ebbc.org blog or the EBBC-Talk forum. EBBC member Heath Mad- dox recognized his wife’s stolen bike within hours of a photo being posted by Scott Ward. Scott had bought the bike from its unlikely rider and contacted us because of the EBBC stickers on the frame. Hmmm…perhaps we can create an on-going program to help members to combat theft? We will discuss options at our August 21 meeting. In the meantime, you can review a few tips to deter thefts or recover a stolen bike posted under “Combat Bike Theft” at www.ebbc.org/?q=node/767.

More Street Skills Classes – Thanks to the Alameda County Transportation Improvement Authority (ACTIA) funding of our grant application, the EBBC will once again offer the popular “Street Skills” classes starting this fall. Our bike safety classes throughout Alameda County, part of the recent May “Bike Month” activities, garnered lots of attention from seasoned bike commuters and novices alike. Over the next two years, EBBC’s certified instructors will conduct six series of free safety classes to teach urban cyclists how to drive a bike safely in traffic. October and November dates, with multiple location options, for the first series of four-hour classroom sessions and the optional six-hour on-road course will soon be announced on www.ebbc.org. You can sign up via email (dcampbel@lmi.net) or at the Berkeley BikeStation (510-548-7433).

Estuary Crossing – The Bay Conserva- tion and Development Commission’s Design Review Board will review the Alameda County Transportation Authority (ACTIA) funding of our grant application, the EBBC will once again offer the popular “Street Skills” classes starting this fall. Our bike safety classes throughout Alameda County, part of the recent May “Bike Month” activities, garnered lots of attention from seasoned bike commuters and novices alike. Oakland Art & Soul – Over last year’s Labor Day weekend festivities, the EBBC’s free valet bike parking (VBP) corral overflowed. This year’s Art & Soul will be open 11 am to 6 p.m. on Sept 1, 2, and 3, with an expanded VBP corral at the 14th and Broadway entry gate providing free bike parking. The festival encompasses 10 city blocks at Frank Ogawa Plaza and the City Center. Daily adult admission is $10.00 at the door. For a complete listing of headliners and activities visit www.ArtandSoulOakland.com.

Solano Avenue Stroll – The tremendous reception that Albany bicyclists received at “Greening Albany” on June 3 points to even greater than usual participation of bicyclists in this year’s Solano Avenue Stroll. This year’s theme is “Going Green—I’s Easy.” On Sunday, September 9, mile-long Solano Avenue in Berkeley and Albany turns into the Bay Area’s biggest block party, drawing more than 250,000 festival attendees. The EBBC’s free and secure valet bike parking at Wells Fargo Bank near Colusa attracts plenty of attention from strollers. To sweeten the pot, a generous donor has contributed a top-end Dahon folding bike that the EBBC will raffle to new members.

EBBC Hiring for VBP – With valet bike parking (VBP) becoming de rigueur for successful large public gatherings in the East Bay, the EBBC has been overwhelmed with requests to provide free VBP corrals. We received ten requests for VBP services for events scheduled from late July through September—many on conflicting dates. Our small crew of paid staff and more bountiful volunteers (we hope you’re listening and marking your calendars), along with our limited existing VBP racks, cannot meet the demand this year. (A new VBP enterprise may help in 2008.) For now, to meet contractual obligations with the Oakland Art & Soul Festival (Sept 1-3) and the Out and About Rockridge Street Fair (slated to close College Avenue on Sunday, September 30) we want to hire a VBP Site Supervisor. The four days of labor will pay between $14 and $18.50 per hour, depending on qualifications. Please contact Robert Raburn at 510-530-3444 to apply.

Hayward – The City of Hayward is starting a planning process for the former I-238 right-of-way that will not be built. Part of it could be used for a ped/bike way from Castro Valley to South Hayward BART. How about this? I assume so. I will be implying EBBC support when I help guide city staff and consultants on a tour of the route. EBBC should also weigh in at an upcoming public workshop, probably in September.

Richmond – Councilmember Tom Butt reports meeting with Caltrans, ABAG, Chevron, TRAC, US Coast Guard (USCG), East Bay Regional Park District, BCDC, the State Lands Commission, and EBBC on July 16 to discuss developing a pedestrian/bicycle path from Point Richmond to Point Molate (currently accessible for bicyclists via freeway shoulder) (see: April 2007 rideOn). Both Chevron and the USCG expressed their interest that any path alignment should take into consideration their concerns regarding security. Chevron agreed to fund an update to a previous path alignment study that will look at possible locations for this connecting path, including these security issues. ABAG representatives also indicated that they could make grant funds available to fund a portion of this study.

Bay Trail Grants – Bay Trail staff are preparing for the first of two new $3 million grant allocation rounds funded by the California Coastal Conservancy. Your community’s priority projects to close gaps in the Bay Trail need to be planned and in a ready-to-build stage to score highly. Please contact Lee Hsu, Bay Trail Planner for Alameda and Contra Costa counties (leeh@abag.ca.gov; 510-464-7915). The EBBC has promoted the Bay Trail since its inception in 1988 when then-Senator Bill Lockyer (Hayward) proposed to establish a 500-mile path around the bay. For more on the Bay Trail visit http://baytrail.abag.ca.gov.

Pittsburg – In Bruce “Ole” Olshon’s words, “Pittsburg’s bicycle community loves the new bike lanes on Harbor Street.” However, some of Pittsburg’s drivers seem to not have a clue. A few motorists have suddenly elected to illegally park just beyond the northbound bike lane approaching Leland Road, forcing bicyclists to swerve into traffic. Ole has written to City officials requesting that the curb be painted red between the two existing No Parking signs.

Safe Routes to Schools – The Safe Routes to Schools (SR2S) Alameda County Partnership has been awarded funding from the Caltrans SR2S Grant program. Over the next two years we look forward to starting new programs, training, and activities at 50 schools in Alameda County. This is a huge expansion of the successful pilot program that TALC ran in two Oakland schools during the past school year. The Partnership, spearheaded by TALC, includes the Alameda County Public Health Department and Cycles of Change. To manage the new partnership, TALC hired Nora Cody. To learn more, visit: www.transcoalition.org/c/sr2s.
Will State Transportation Policies Reflect Climate Change?

The California Transportation Commission only reviews its regional transportation plan (RTP) guidelines about once every decade. The guidelines impact many billions of dollars worth of transportation projects. In the big picture, due to climate change, the earth is shaking underneath the feet of the transportation community.

The EBBC recently joined numerous other groups in sending comments to the chief transportation planners in the State Department of Transportation. Here are excerpts from Robert Raburn’s August 2 comments on the state’s Draft 2007 RTP guidelines:

Our comments today are focused on improving the safe and convenient travel of California’s most vulnerable roadway users, people who walk or bicycle. Currently, pedestrians and bicyclists constitute 20% of the state’s traffic-related fatalities, yet current laws and policies are inadequate for their protection and for the promotion of these healthy, clean modes.

While the RTP guidelines do currently address issues pertaining to walking and bicycling, we request that the following changes be made:

- In section 3.12, add transportation advocates representing people who walk or bicycle to those groups with whom consultation and coordination is expected;
- In section 3.19, add protection and enhancement of access for people walking or bicycling to those items needing consideration under the Highways, Local Streets and Roads section;
- In section 3.23, add inclusion of a comprehensive Safe Routes to School Plan to those bicycle and pedestrian issues that should be discussed;
- In section 3.23, add inclusion of a complete streets policy to better integrate access, safety and convenience for people who walk or bicycle into the planning, design, construction and reconstruction of all transportation infrastructure to those bicycle and pedestrian issues that should be discussed;
- In section 3.28, add 1) decrease in vehicle miles traveled and 2) increase in short auto trips converted to walking or bicycling to the list of performance measures;
- As for the Checklist, please add non-motorized to the list of communities with whom the RTP is expected to consult and coordinate under question 2 of the RTP guidelines.

MTC Approves Round 2 SR2T Project Winners

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission approved several Safe Routes to Transit (SR2T) projects recommended by TALC and EBBC on July 25. Below are the Contra Costa and Alameda County projects funded in the second SR2T cycle, thanks to the Regional Measure 2 Program (one dollar of your bridge tolls). The full list is online at: www.transcoalition.org. The EBBC and TALC will coordinate three more grant cycles.

Here are the projects in our local area:

Contra Costa Centre/Pleasant Hill BART Shortcut Path and Wayfinding Project

Contra Costa Co./BART: $300,000

- A new bike/ped connector path will provide access to the Pleasant Hill BART Station from Bancroft Road along BART’s right-of-way.

Richmond/Olhone Greenway Gap Closure

- Class I Access to Transit Plan
  - Richmond/El Cerrito: $200,000
  - These two cities will coordinate a study to improve the San Pablo Avenue bike/ped crossing of the Richmond Greenway/Olhone Trail.

Safe Routes to Ed Roberts Campus/Ashby BART

- City of Berkeley/BART: $325,000
  - A variety of bike/ped improvements are planned for the area around the new Ed Roberts Campus at Ashby BART, including bike channels for proposed new stairways leading down from Adeline Street.

Oak-Ninth Critics to Rally August 17: Petitioners Refuse to Be Ignored

Oaklanders voted for parks—but the City Council approved a 3100-unit development.

Join the Oak to Ninth Referendum Committee at noon Friday, August 17, in front of Oakland City Hall to help make Oakland count your signatures.

We want to know why Oakland is:

- Failing to count 25,068 signatures on referendum petitions.
- Walling off our waterfront and limiting public access.
- Creating unmitigated traffic congestion.
- Selling our public land at a discount to a private developer.
- Subsidizing a private developer with millions of dollars while leaving 2000 children without a public school.
- Building housing next to the polluted air of the I-880 right-of-way.

The EBBC’s focus is to ensure that public access—including completion of the Bay Trail—and bicycle safety are addressed along the Oakland waterfront. The current proposal would also compromise upland access to the shoreline. Currently, only 5th Avenue crosses the freeway and rail barriers in the 1-1/2 mile section of Embarcadero between Oak Street and the 16th Avenue overpass.

Given Oakland’s natural environment, most cities would have long ago created a park and path between Lake Merritt and the Estuary instead of separating them with concrete.

The post-development view across Oak to Ninth towards the estuary, which will have very limited public access after construction.

East Bay Bicycle Coalition, July 17, 2007
Board Meeting Minutes (unapproved)

Treasurer’s Report
Loss of $22,706.81 to date is due to down payment of $24,475 paid for the West of Hills Map. Otherwise, EBBC has taken in almost $2,000 more than it has spent during the first 6 months of the year. The new DB server is charging EBBC $100/month.

Membership
Newsletter went out to 1350 members July. 18 new members from Berkeley July 4 event.

Board Email list
All board members should be on the EBBC board email list. Eric M. will make sure everyone is on the list.

LCI Seminar schedule includes San Luis Obispo (Aug. 10-12) and San Jose (Aug. 17-19).

EBBC Valet Bike Parking
Action: EBBC needs to consider its valet bike parking commitments as there are 8 upcoming events requesting free bike parking. Robert R. went through each of the events and recommended forming a subcommittee to assess a realistic schedule of events for 2008 and beyond, and develop a strategy for implementation. Robert R also recommended that EBBC support the following 2007 events: Art & Soul, Solano Avenue Stroll, and Out & About Rockridge. The board recommended considering hiring a Volunteer Coordinator. Due to lack of time, the volunteer coordinator issue was tabled until the next meeting and VBP was approved for the three events recommended.

EBBC General Meeting Minutes
July 17, 2007 (unapproved)

Approval of June Meeting Minutes - approved unanimously

Regional Transportation Plan
Action: discussion of approving the 5 bullet points submitted for TALC Platform: fully fund Regional Bicycle Network, revise RBP, do a Regional Pedestrian Plan, increase funding for Safe Routes to Transit, create a regional Safe Routes to Transit program. There was a discussion of the omission of the West Span Bike/Ped Maintenance Pathway in the platform. Proposed Alameda County Bicycle Event Ordinance Needs Careful Review

After months of closely working with Alameda County officials on bicycle issues, cycling organizations were surprised by the late addition of a proposed Bicycle Event Ordinance to the Board of Supervisors’ (BOS) July 31 regular meeting agenda.

The draft ordinance had been circulated by County Counsel at the April 11 Rural Roads meeting in Livermore, but no schedule for committee review or public hearings had been announced. (At the meeting, the Sheriff also reported citing 311 motorists in January 2007, primarily for speeding and crossing over the double yellow line, which the EBBC applauds.)

Without further review, the draft event ordinance was offered as an addendum less than a week before the regular July 31 BOS meeting. The draft also listed 77 unincorporated streets and roads covered by the proposed ordinance. Suddenly, cycling clubs were asking, “what’s this all about?” and “how does this affect our club?”

(After criticism from the County Counsel, an earlier draft ordinance promoted by the Sheriff to replace the inappropriate Parade Ordinance was abandoned at a Board Transportation/Planning Committee meeting on October 9, 2006.)

The EBBC notified bicycle club leaders and asked the Supervisors to continue the item to a future meeting, in order to give cycling clubs a chance to review the ordinance. A flurry of requests to the Board Clerk and Supervisor’s offices for fax copies of the draft ordinance followed. (County ordinances still in draft form are not available online or in an easy-to-circulate electronic format.)

Thanks to Supervisor Gail Steele’s July 31 continuation motion, the draft Bicycle Event Ordinance should not appear soon on a BOS agenda. Ideally, it will first go through a Transportation/Planning committee review hearing. The Supervisors’ next scheduled meeting is September 11. The EBBC advocates an inclusive and thorough public review process for the draft ordinance in addition to the previous Rural Road meetings with officials representing the Sheriff and the County Counsel.

Members of the EBBC, Pedalera Cyclists, and Cherry City Cyclists have attended most Rural Roads meetings to respond to Mines Road residents’ concerns about sharing that outlying road to Mt. Hamilton with cyclists.

The EBBC proposes to broaden this outreach throughout the Bay Area, and, as a first step, has invited the Sheriff and County Counsel to attend our General Meeting and address the proposed ordinance on August 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Below: Alameda County Sheriff’s deputies on patrol at Pedalera’s Mt. Hamilton Challenge rest stop on Mines Road, April 28, 2007. The word spread fast: racing motorcycles and sports cars slowed or detoured rather than risk citations for violations that endanger cyclists.
