Fair share of funding for bikes

Help us fund hundreds of miles of new bikeways in Alameda County

Imagine bicycling from Fremont to Oakland on a continuous, separated bike path known as the East Bay Greenway, and imagine a Bike Station at every BART Station with secure bike parking for hundreds of bikes, and imagine bicycling to work from Oakland to San Francisco across the Bay Bridge Pathway. Your help now can make this vision a reality.

Alameda County is developing a new transportation sales tax measure to augment and extend Measure B, our existing 20-year transportation sales tax. Back in 2000, the East Bay Bicycle Coalition succeeded in securing 5% of Measure B for bike/ped projects. This money has funded bike lanes in Oakland on Market St, 40th St, and Lakeshore Ave, the Iron Horse Trail in Pleasanton, San Leandro Slough Bay Trail bridge, the Alamo Canal Trail under crossing of I-580 in Dublin, new electronic lockers at BART, pedestrian improvements in the Irvington District of Fremont, and the East Bay Bicycle Coalition’s own bicycle safety education program. In addition, Measure B has funded nine bicycle and pedestrian plans, which all have identified numerous local bike/ped projects ready for funding by the new Measure B.

With potentially $7.7 billion in additional transportation funding, the new Measure B has the potential to fund hundreds of miles of bikeways in the Countywide Bicycle Plan, and thereby complete an extensive countywide network of safe and inviting bikeways for you to use everyday.

In September, a draft plan will be released for public input, and the East Bay Bicycle Coalition is working with decision-makers now to maximize funding in the plan for bike/ped projects. We are also preparing to hit the streets and talk up support for more bikeway funding. Specifically, we want to see the plan complete the entire countywide bikeway network. With billions available in funding for a variety of programs, this is our opportunity to build out a robust bikeway network in Alameda County that will make your bike commute safe and enjoyable.

What you can do:

• Come out to public workshops in October and early November. We need enthusiastic cyclists to attend these meetings and ask for a “fair share for bikes” to fully fund the Bike Plan
• If you can't attend one of the upcoming Fall public workshops, please take an online web questionnaire—look for an eblist update in late September for this survey
• Volunteer with the East Bay Bicycle Coalition and our on-the-streets team this Fall gathering support for the countywide bike network and a “fair share” for bikes.

We need all of our members supporting the call to fully fund the Countywide Bicycle & Pedestrian Plans with a fair share for bikes. Can you volunteer to help us secure hundreds of millions for new bike/ped projects?

I have been “in the saddle” as Executive Director of the East Bay Bicycle Coalition for just over six months now, and I am so excited to see how engaged and involved our members, volunteers and board of directors are in our work of transforming the East Bay into a great place to ride a bike.

This year, for the first time, the East Bay Bicycle Coalition has embarked on a multi-year strategic planning process. Our Board of Directors will adopt a strategic plan this October that will guide our work over the next three years. At our member meeting in September the board will present a draft plan to you, our current members, to get the benefit of your ideas and wisdom.

The Alliance for Biking and Walking, a national bicycle advocacy organization, provided us with a grant to do this strategic planning work. At the end of July the East Bay Bicycle Coalition brought together our board, staff and key partners and stakeholders to plot the course of our organization over the next three years. We brought together 25 people with a facilitator from the Alliance for two full days of brainstorming and strategizing on growing the East Bay Bicycle Coalition and the movement for better bicycling here in the East Bay. As a group we began the process of developing a new mission, vision and guiding principles for the organization, and goals over the next three years. Now we need to hear from you, our members, on the direction of the East Bay Bicycle Coalition.

As we move forward with this plan and refine the campaigns and action plans that we hope will get us to 50% more people biking over these next three years we want your input. Come to our next membership meeting on September 21, from 7:30 to 9:00pm at the Rockridge Library to hear more about our strategic planning process and to give us your input on our advocacy work over the next three years. You bring the great ideas and we will provide dinner and beer.

We need your support and input now more than ever, as we implement this new strategic direction for the East Bay Bicycle Coalition. Please spread the word about our work and encourage your friends to join. And if the front of this newsletter says that it is time for you to renew please send your renewal today or renew online at ebbc.org/donate. Our goal is to transform the East Bay into a place where everybody bikes, and we can’t do it without you.

Ride On,
Renee Rivera

BikeLink grows!

Got your BikeLink card?

2011 is shaping up to be a big year of expansion for BikeLink™, bringing you hundreds of more secure bike parking spaces/lockers throughout the Bay Area. This past Spring, a new Bike Station facility opened at the Ashby BART station, with spaces for 128 bikes, accessed by your BikeLink™ card. Bicyclists are taking advantage of 24-hour secure bike parking at the Berkeley Bike Station, again using their BikeLink™ cards. This Fall BART will be adding 334 new lockers at stations throughout the East Bay, and hundreds more next year—all BikeLink™ accessible.

Just 5 cents/hour gets you secure, on-demand bike lockers throughout the East Bay and beyond. A $20 BikeLink™ card gets you over 400 hours of security. To access BikeLink's bike parking lockers and Bike Station facilities, users simply buy a BikeLink™ card online, by phone or at a local retail vendor such as the Berkeley Bike Station, the Fruitvale Bike Station, Lake Merritt BART Customer Service, AC Transit offices at 1600 Franklin St. and Contra Costa Centre at Pleasant Hill BART. You also get free 24-hr phone support. And occasional cyclists need not worry - the value on the card never expires and there are no ongoing membership fees.

Climate Ride offers the adventure of a lifetime and funding for our advocacy work

Here at the East Bay Bicycle Coalition we are very excited to partner up with Climate Ride, the largest environmental cycling event in the county, for the second annual California ride this October. This is your chance to act globally and locally at the same time as you raise funds for climate action, and more bikeable East Bay streets.

We're recruiting team members for the first-ever Team EBBC on this year's Climate Ride California. This October 2-6, you can be part of the fun and support EBBC at the same time! The exciting part for East Bay Bicycle Coalition is that a portion of the funds raised by Team members will go directly to our programs!

If you join us on Team EBBC, a portion of every dollar you raise for this year's Climate Ride will go to support the East Bay Bicycle Coalition's work to make your ride better every day. We are working hard to gain you access to ride all the way the way to San Francisco on a continuous bikeway across the Bay Bridge, and many other East Bay projects.

Climate Ride is a 5-day, fully-supported bicycle ride from Fortuna to San Francisco under towering redwoods, through the Russian River Wine Country, and along the Pacific Coast Bicycle Route - one of the most scenic coastlines in the world. This ‘green conference on wheels’ also features nightly speakers who focus on bicycle advocacy, sustainability, and renewable energy. Learn more at www.climateride.org.

Join us by choosing "Team East Bay Bicycle Coalition" when you register or go to http://tinyurl.com/teamebbc to sign up directly for Team EBBC. Be sure to choose East Bay Bicycle Coalition as your beneficiary when you register for Climate Ride.

We are so excited to have you on our team working to save our planet and to support our work to make the East Bay a better place to bike!

Help design BART’s new train cars of the future

BART is designing all-new cars to replace its aging fleet and now is the time for your better bike ideas. Could BART make it more comfortable for bicyclists and non-bicyclists alike by providing a comfortable, convenient space for bikes out of the aisles and doorways? East Bay Bicycle Coalition wants your ideas.

Attend a BART open house: Come to an upcoming BART public open house in Walnut Creek, Pittsburg, San Leandro, San Francisco, and Union City.

Pedalfest is coming to Oakland

The East Bay Bicycle Coalition is excited to announce an incredible bike festival in Oakland: Pedalfest. The festival will take place on Saturday, October 22 and is designed to draw a diverse crowd – from the recreational rider and casual observer to the seasoned cyclist, showcasing what makes cycling such an amazing activity for individuals, groups and families.

We have been working for months, in partnership with Walk Oakland Bike Oakland, Jack London Square and Michael Stangl of East Bay Bike Party to bring you an awesome bike event at Jack London Square this October. Pedalfest, sponsored by New Belgium Brewing, Jack London Square and others, is all about getting people on their bikes, allowing them to experience firsthand the benefits of everyday riding.

Come out to Pedalfest to (re)discover the joy of riding and develop the skills to ride safely. We will have bike fittings to help you identify a comfortable bicycle; Giant’s women’s clinic and organized ride will draw in new women cyclists and prepare them with strong riding skills; a mock city landscape will help children learn to safely navigate the streets. And then there is the fun stuff: a New Belgium beer garden with all proceeds benefitting the advocacy work of the East Bay Bicycle Coalition and Walk Oakland Bike Oakland, pedal–powered carnival rides from Cyclecide, an Art of the Bicycle exhibit, stunt riders and lots of fun interactive games and activities.

Come out and volunteer to help with our valet bike parking, outreach, pouring beer, and helping out with our activities, or just come enjoy the festival and raise a (beer) glass to a great event celebrating our rich and diverse bike culture.

Volunteer Spotlight: Andrew Graham

Andrew Graham is a Bicycle Coalition member and Berkeley resident who can often be seen around the bicycle boulevards and bikeways of the East Bay on a tandem with his two young daughters. Meet Andrew and get inspired to bike with your kids!

1) How did you get started biking with your kids?
I started by tying our 6-month old baby's car seat into a bike trailer -- this after an earlier attempt at 4-months that did not pass inspection by my wife or mother in-law! At 6-months, all were quite happy - baby included - with a secure and well-padded bubble-bike-trailer-thing. I recall being very careful about where we rode early on so to not bump around too much. The bike seat came later, with various configurations since that time including the "Monster Bike" and today's "Street Machine."

2) What's your favorite part about biking with your kids?
NOT being in the car with my kids. I like the feeling of a shared adventure and satisfaction of getting where we are going -- we talk along the way about this, that and the other thing. Oh yeah, and it's neat when your kids (at least for now) think it's cool to bike with dad.

3) What's your favorite part about bicycling in the East Bay?
Only one? I have three: variety, accessibility and weather. The East Bay has fantastic weather for biking, and many destinations are accessible by bike on relatively quiet streets, "Bicycle Boulevards" and recreational or multi-use trails -- they are out there -- go find them! It's so much more fun to arrive somewhere on your bike.

4) What aspect of East Bay cycling would you like to see improved?
I would like to see more dedicated multi-use trails alongside transit corridors, meaning I don't only bike for fun on a recreational trail leading to the beach or park, but also to get things done -- with my kids. The trail needs to go to the grocery store, school, work, and other utilitarian destinations of sorts.

Bike lanes to Lake Merritt BART

BART and the City of Oakland have big plans for the area around Lake Merritt BART. New plans call for better biking, walking and living from Chinatown to the East Lake District and from Jack London Square to 14th St. The Lake Merritt BART Station Area Plan process has been underway since 2008 and much community input has been gathered in support of these improvements.

What has the public been saying? People want to calm traffic, reduce vehicle speeds, return one-way streets back to two-way streets, widen sidewalks, encourage in-fill development, and most importantly, provide better bike access around the BART Station on 14th St, 10th St, 7th, 8th and 9th St and Oak St and Harrison St.

People who commute by bike have a real opportunity to not only create a vibrant, walkable, bikeable neighborhood around the station, but we can also complete needed gaps in Oakland's bikeway network. Top priority is 14th St, connecting Frank Ogawa Plaza with the new separated pathway around the bottom of Lake Merritt, and Oak St, connecting the Embarcadero with Harrison St around the west side of Lake Merritt. In addition, new bike lanes and two-way streets around Lake Merritt BART Station will get many more commuters biking to BART and help students bike to Laney College.

The City of Oakland is also encouraging a lot of great new mixed-use development around the station, including a mix of shopping, restaurants, office, entertainment and residential uses throughout the area that are affordable for a wide range of incomes. The Bicycle Coalition will continue to work with the City to ensure that good bike circulation is a top priority.

Next steps are to finalize designs for the Plan and then to prioritize which projects get funded first. Since bike projects do not cost much money, we can make sure they stay a top priority. We need your help to ensure lots of public support.
