LETTER FROM THE SADDLE

Dear Members,

Bike East Bay is in an incredibly exciting moment in our history: the search for the next leader of our bicycle movement. As your Interim Executive Director, I am enormously proud to report that Bike East Bay has been going strong since René Rivera, our Executive Director for the past seven years, stepped down this April.

This May, Bike East Bay celebrated Bike to Work Day—our biggest event of the year—with over 21,000 people visiting Energizer Stations around the East Bay. And with Bike East Bay's Bike Happy Hour in Berkeley and nine other parties hosted by local advocacy groups, no one can accuse us of all work and no play on Bike to Work Day. Plus, more good news: over 500 people signed up as members on the big day. Welcome new members!

As members of Bike East Bay, you are the soul of our work for better bicycling. You inspire me every day with your passion, your support of the bike movement, and of course, your excellent adventures. This spring, Bike East Bay supporters took on epic challenges while raising funds for bike advocacy. Member Dan Leaverton rode from Reno, Nevada to the Mendocino Coast—on dirt roads, no less—while raising over $8,000 in less than a week. Read Dan's story, as well as a report from Bike East Bay's Climate Ride team, on page 9.

We're continuing the fun this summer with Pedalfest, Bike East Bay's festival of all things bike at Oakland's Jack London Square on Saturday, July 28. My favorite part of the day is the amphibious bike race, featuring competitors from the world-famous Humboldt County Kinetic Sculpture Race. Come watch the racers splash down into the Oakland estuary!

In this issue of RideOn, you'll also find Bike East Bay's 2017 Annual Report. In the past year, our advocacy work resulted in world-class bike lanes across the East Bay, including the first protected bike lanes in the cities of Pleasanton and Albany. We've made big strides towards our equity goals by employing women and people of color to lead nearly 80% of our bike education classes. You'll also see that Bike East Bay ended 2017 in a strong financial position, and prepared to hire your next Executive Director.

Guided by your staff and board of directors, Bike East Bay is taking this opportunity to make another leap forward for our organization. The search for a new Executive Director is being led by a committee of four board members and one staff member, with assistance from outgoing Executive Director René Rivera. Your board of directors expects to announce the next leader of our bicycling movement later this summer.

Stay tuned and keep on pedaling!

THE ART OF BIKING

Artists brighten new bike trails with murals

By Ginger Jui and Susie Hufstader

The East Bay's network of urban greenways has new connections in Emeryville and Richmond, bringing new car-free access to our bikeway network. While you ride and walk these paths this summer, enjoy colorful murals by local artists.

Emeryville Greenway

On Bike to Work Day, officials in Emeryville cut the ribbon on Peladeau Park, the newest segment of the Emeryville Greenway. This extension of the greenway puts the city one step closer to completing a continuous regional bike route linking Emeryville to Oakland and the Bay Bridge People Path. Peladeau Park features a ping-pong table, picnic area, and two new murals. Titled "Ascend", the murals by artist Joey Rose depict native insects carrying passengers in flight.

While Peladeau Park is a beautiful new addition to the city, more needs to be done to create a safe connection for pedestrians and bicyclists. Currently, the park is an island, separated from the greenway by a steady stream of highway traffic at the intersection of Powell Street and Hollis Street. The northern entrance to the park faces a busy intersection without a traffic light or stop sign. To address these hazards, Bike East Bay is working with the Emeryville Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee to advocate for a bicycle and pedestrian crossing.

Richmond-Ohlone Greenway

The Richmond-Ohlone Greenway connector opened at the end of April, just in time for Bike to Work Day. Together, the Ohlone Greenway in El Cerrito and the Richmond Greenway now form one of the longest urban pathways in the East Bay, stretching from east Richmond to north Berkeley. The newest section of the greenway creates a safe crossing of San Pablo Avenue, restores watershed habitat along Baxter Creek, and offers a new vista of Richard Muro Salazar's giant wave mural at the eastern portal of the Richmond Greenway. For years, Friends of the Richmond Greenway have worked to make a clean, beautiful resource for the community and continue to advocate for improved connections and new public art.

Members of the Friends of Richmond Greenway include Richmond Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee, Rich City RIDES, and Groundwork Richmond.

The East Bay Greenway

In Oakland, the Scraper Bike Team collaborated with artist Desi Mundo to add colorful murals to two BART columns facing 75th Avenue, where the East Bay Greenway extends south from Coliseum Station. A generous grant from Rails-to-Trails Conservancy paid for the artwork. Even though this greenway segment isn't new, more trail is coming. Bike East Bay is supporting the Alameda County Transportation Commission as well as the cities of Oakland, San Leandro, and Hayward as they pursue a vision for a complete East Bay Greenway running parallel to BART in central and southern Alameda County. This path and many others are becoming canvases for community art and public expression as cities build out networks of car-free greenways.

Check out a mural and greenway near you this summer!

NEWS BRIEFS

Protected Intersection Connects the Bay Trail in Richmond

A gap in the San Francisco Bay Trail in Richmond has been upgraded with a protected intersection at Central Avenue and Rydin Street. The trail upgrades help people walk and bike the trail safely in the Point Isabel area. The design of the intersection was inspired by a similar Bike East Bay-led project in Pleasanton that closed a gap in the Iron Horse Trail.

Bike East Bay encouraged the Contra Costa Transportation Authority (CCTA) to redesign this intersection with dedicated bike crossings. CCTA agreed to a “quick-build” protected intersection, using inexpensive, easy-to-install materials to improve safety sooner at this busy location. Because the bike crossing was completed quickly, there are still some kinks in the design to work out. Have you ridden this new Bay Trail connection? Email your feedback to Advocacy@BikeEastBay.org.

San Leandro Bike Plan Passes with a Vision

On March 19, the San Leandro City Council voted unanimously to approve the city's updated Bicycle and Pedestrian Master Plan. Bike East Bay and Bike Walk San Leandro members turned out to support the final plan for a family-friendly bikeway network in San Leandro.

During the planning process, San Leandro members and local leaders spoke out to advocate for a high-quality plan with a network of low-stress bikeways. Thanks to your letters and over 200 responses to an online survey, the final plan now recommends either protected bikeways or protected bikeway studies on high-traffic streets, including Bancroft Avenue, Williams Street, and Doolittle Drive.

San Leandro is working to add bike routes during upcoming repaving projects, including the city's first protected bike lane on Fairmont Drive near Bay Fair BART. Stay tuned on advocacy and events at BikeEastBay.org/SanLeandro.

RM3 to Fund Transportation Improvements

In June, voters passed Regional Measure 3 which increases bridge tolls to provide funding for transit improvements and $150 million for walking and bicycling projects. As a region-wide measure, all bridge users will pay the increase and all communities will benefit from projects.

Bike East Bay

Annual Report 2017

TOP WINS IN 2017

1 BANCROFT WAY, BERKELEY

Bike East Bay partnered with AC Transit to redesign Bancroft Way to prioritize safety and dedicate space for walking, biking, and taking public transit. Completed in fall 2017, the new Bancroft Way benefits everyone with shorter crosswalks, a two-way protected bike lane, and dedicated bus lanes. The Bancroft Way bikeway now connects to the existing protected bike lane on Fulton Street, making these the first connected protected bike lanes in the East Bay.

2 IRON HORSE TRAIL, PLEASANTON

The City of Pleasanton built the Tri-Valley's first protected intersection after Bike East Bay's successful campaign to fix a major gap along the Iron Horse Trail. After a tragic bicycle collision at the intersection of Stanley Boulevard and Valley Avenue in 2016, Bike East Bay and local ride groups rallied to push the City of Pleasanton to make the trail safer for people walking and riding. The redesigned intersection makes it safer and easier for local residents to access a nearby bike park and connect to BART.

3 BIKE SHARE FOR ALL

As bike share launched in Oakland, Berkeley, and Emeryville, Bike East Bay worked to make this new transportation system available to underserved communities. We joined TransForm, Cycles of Change, and Oakland's Scraper Bike Team to remove barriers to using bike share by negotiating deeply discounted memberships for low-income people and signing up individuals at community events. As a result, over 2,811 people have signed up for discounted memberships in the Bay Area, and the majority of people using it are in the East Bay.

WHAT WE DO

Bike East Bay improves your ride through advocacy, education, and fun events. Our mission is to promote healthy, sustainable communities by making bicycling safe, fun, and accessible. Through grassroots organizing, we empower members, volunteers, and community leaders to become champions for better bicycling and a more equitable transportation system. Find out more about our campaigns and sign up for a free urban cycling class at BikeEastBay.org.

TEAM BIKE EAST BAY

By Rachel Jacobson

Excellent Adventures for Advocacy

Bike East Bay members are adventurous, passionate people who love to explore our beautiful region under our own power. Here are three members who turned their adventures into an advocacy opportunity by fundraising for Bike East Bay.

Keith Rides the Coast

This year, Keith Hermansteyne signed up for the 300-mile California North Coast Climate Ride from Fortuna to San Francisco. Before becoming a Bike East Bay member, Keith had never ridden long distances. In 2017, he attended spring rides led by Bike East Bay. He learned a lot about long group rides, from pacing and bike repair to camaraderie and collaboration. After a 70-mile haul from Pleasant Hill to Davis, Keith thought, "Well, if I can do all this, maybe I should add in fundraising!"

He took his 2018 training rides seriously, sharing each new feat and inviting friends and family to support him with a donation.

Climate Ride is a great way to try a multi-day ride while supporting Bike East Bay. This May, our Team Bike East Bay crew of seven riders raised over $15,000 for Bike East Bay.

Susie Runs Oakland

Susie Hufstader, Bike East Bay's community organizer, is a seasoned marathoner. From the New York Marathon to the Boston Marathon, she has run a lot of miles.

This year, she decided to bring it home by participating in the Oakland Marathon to connect her passion for running with her work in transportation advocacy. While she trained and built her knowledge of local street conditions, she ran every street in Alameda. By appealing to family, friends, and community, Susie raised $2,000 for Bike East Bay. During the race, her supporters biked around to cheer her on.

Next year, Susie wants to lead training runs for other folks who want to participate in the Oakland Marathon (with courses from 5K to marathon) and fundraise for Bike East Bay.

Dan Bikes Across California

Dan Leaverton is a longtime Bike East Bay member, volunteer, community advocate, and fundraiser. "I want to see more people biking and walking through town," Dan said, "and my favorite nonprofit, Bike East Bay, does too."

Though he mostly bikes with his family, Dan likes an intense adventure ride from time to time. In 2014 and 2015, Dan connected his love of a good challenge ride with his commitment to his community by joining Climate Ride. Dan and Team Bike East Bay raised a whopping $25,000 for Bike East Bay.

This May, Dan was at it again: he rode with a small, independent crew from Reno to Mendocino and raised $9,000 for Bike East Bay in just 10 days.

Dan doesn't know what his next adventure will be, but he knows he'll be supporting Bike East Bay again soon.

SAVE THE DATE

Calling all future Team Bike East Bay members! Thinking about doing Climate Ride? Ready to run with Susie? Brewing up your own adventure and ready to layer on some fundraising?
